

BREAKFAST BRIEFS.

A complete Collection of News Items and Happenings of the Day.

The water pipes on Grand avenue are being extended to the roundhouse.

The M. C. church has been engaged for the press association meetings this week.

It is said that there is not hotel accommodations at Chihuahua for the great rush there.

J. J. Ludi yesterday moved his butcher shop from B. C. Rountree's old stand on Main street to South Pacific street.

The hose company boys are recovering from the soreness engendered by the violent exercise at the fire. The boys worked hard, and it was at an uncomfortable time of night.

The Cerillos smelter was started up Sunday morning and turned out sixteen bars of bullion by noon Monday. The prospects are that the works will run continually hereafter.

John J. Kiefer, formerly of Lebanon, Ohio, died at the hospital yesterday of consumption. He was formerly a telegraph operator. He was decently buried by the attendants at the hospital.

The Albuquerque Journal says that by the time the Chihuahua excursion got that far every coach was crowded so there was hardly standing room. Another coach should have been provided.

Chas. Gentle had to come to it and purchase a bottle of mother Winslow's soothing syrup for that young sailor of his. The old gent felt very badly over the matter and thought the refractory youth would quiet down now.

The St. Nicholas hotel is the looser of several pistols lately, and it is thought the money thief Harrison may know something of their whereabouts. He will be given an opportunity to reveal his knowledge if he does.

It is an interesting piece of news to telegraph to New Mexico this morning that President Arthur is enjoying himself catching pickerel on the St. Lawrence. It gives one an idea of what sports interest a great man.

The dining room of the European restaurant is now situated directly back of Kendrick's fruit store, on the plaza, where the very best board is provided at reasonable prices. It is a nice quiet place, and convenient to business.

The colored minstrels took the train yesterday for Albuquerque. They found it impossible to get a crowd in Baco hall while it was considered unsafe. They say they will give this city another trial when the new hall is finished.

G. E. McCumber was up from San Miguel ranch, better known as Bell's ranch, yesterday. He was laying in a stock of provisions and goods for his store and hay camps. He is a rustler and will win if hard work counts for anything.

Mr. M. J. Wilson has just opened up with a handsome stock of clothing, boots shoes, etc., in the building formerly occupied by H. Romero & Bros. Mr. Wilson is now in Kansas City buying a heavy stock of fall and winter goods.

Fitzgerald's Guide to New Mexico for October will be issued to-day. It is an unusually interesting number, and just the thing to send east to your friends desiring information of New Mexico. Get a number of copies and mail them.

Bishop Thomas Bowman, of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. J. A. Calien and wife, of Raton, will be passengers on to-day's train en route to the conference at Albuquerque. They will be accompanied by Rev. D. M. Brown, from this city.

Col. Webb will be entitled to his choice of offices in Santa Fe county. The delegation from Carbonateville to the county convention is instructed to work for the nomination of R. W. Webb for any office he might be put forward to by the people of the New Placers.

The west side hose company is to be called Las Vegas Hose Company No. 2. A meeting is to be held to-night for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for erecting a building adjoining I. Stern's new store. This is a good location, and one from which all portions of the city can be reached easily and quickly.

J. N. Furlong has a number of neat frames made especially for the bird's-eye view of Las Vegas. Mr. Furlong frames these splendid pictures of our city at remarkably low rates. It will pay all those possessing these views to take them to Mr. Furlong and have them framed. The frames are handsomely finished, and will be an ornament to your parlors.

Fred. I. Hooper came up from the Red River country yesterday afternoon. He is on his way to Kansas City to sell a number of fat cattle which are now on the trail and will be shipped at west Las Animas. The cattle will make several car loads and are the very finest in the market. Mr. Hooper thinks the market price will soon be apprehended, as information of his whereabouts has been obtained.

Yesterday this paper received an order for thirty-five papers for regular subscribers at Lake Valley. This gives some idea of the circulation of the GAZETTE in the territory where it is known and looked upon as authority upon all topics. It is not sent east to exchanges and dead-head subscribers for the purpose of keeping up a list. Its bona fide circulation is sufficiently large without being driven to such extremes.

THE PERCHA COUNTRY.

Kingston, Her Mines, Water Facilities and Timber.

Kingston, together with the several other new camps along the Percha and tributaries, have heretofore generally been associated with or understood to be a portion of the Lake Valley district. In part this may be correct, but in general it is not. The two districts are really separate and distinct. The two principal centers, Lake Valley and Kingston, are about twenty miles apart by direct line, or thirty by the wagon road. The Percha country is situated in the Black Range and forms a portion of that wonderful mineral system.

The wagon road from Lake Valley runs past the lake, where the town of Lake Valley was originally located, and where George Daly and the other victims of Victoria's murderous raid of a year ago were buried. The road is good and leads in a northerly direction until Hillsboro is reached. From there the road runs almost directly west along one of the tributaries of the Percha. The distance to Kingston from Hillsboro is twelve miles along a very good road, though inclined to be hilly during the last part of it. The town of Kingston is picturesquely situated among wood-covered hills and lofty mountains. In many of the canyons in the neighborhood pine timber is of good growth, though not very plentiful. There is no more of this timber than is needed for working the mines and it should all be saved for that purpose. A beautiful little stream of water comes down out of the mountains and runs through the town site of Kingston, thus furnishing an abundance of excellent water. Sufficient by proper management to supply a city of several thousand inhabitants.

Juniper, pine and pinyon grow in abundance all about the town, and afford a refreshing shade to weary travelers who now camp beneath their spreading boughs. Business houses are springing up rapidly. Lumber, however, is a great drawback to the town, as it cannot be supplied fast enough to meet the demands of the people.

Mr. A. Baraby has a large stock of general merchandise and provisions which he is disposing of to the miners at the most reasonable rates. He has an excellent trade and will necessarily have to enlarge the store in the near future in order to accommodate the public. The Kingston postoffice is also kept in his store.

Wilson Bros., interested parties in the Solitaire mine, better known as the Big Strike, also have a large store building filled with goods and provisions. They are doing a good business.

A number of saloons, eating houses and restaurants are in course of erection or projected, but owing to the scarcity of lumber, progress in the building line is necessarily slow.

El Hilty, well known in this city purchased a lot and is making arrangements to go into business.

J. A. Cameron, an old Las Vegas, will go into the saloon business as soon as he can get his house up and a stock of liquors on hand.

Mr. Maxwell, also a Vegas boy, is talking of engaging in the lumber business.

Hopper Bros., Lockhart & Co., R. J. Holmes and several other Las Vegas business men have secured lots and will soon establish branch houses at that point. It is a fine location both as regards business and a residence place. The mines are numerous in the vicinity and are situated at a convenient distance from the town. Commencing with the Gray and Black Eagle and terminating with the Solitaire, the mines form a semi-circle about Kingston as a centre. The Gray and Black Eagle mines are owned by L. R. Routh and are situated three and a half miles in a direct line southwest of the town. Two thousand dollars worth of development work has been done on these mines. The average assay of the ore is $250 per ton, gold and silver.

The Bullion, owned by T. F. Chapman, of this city, and others, is certainly one of the best mines in the district and is being worked more systematically. The ore lays in a heavy bed and is of a dark gray color and of great richness, running several thousand dollars per ton. Malleable silver is quite frequent, especially in the tale frequently found along the edges of the ore vein. The ore is being assorted and sacked for shipment as fast as it is taken from the mines. It is estimated that there is now $50,000 worth of ore in sacks on the dump, and the shaft from which this ore was taken is only about sixty feet deep. A road is being graded to Kingston and as soon as this is finished the shipment of ore to Denver will be commenced. From ten to fifteen men are being worked in the mine and on the road. Mr. Charles Means, formerly of the Hot Springs, is the efficient foreman of the mine.

The Superior, owned by Governor Perkins, of California; J. C. Logan, of California; Thos. Burns and E. D. Town, adjoins the Bullion and is an excellent mine. Native silver has been taken from one shaft. Thos. Burns is the resident manager. He reports 270 feet of shafting and open tunnels on the mine and work is being carried forward rapidly. Horn silver has been struck in one shaft and fair assaying ore in two others. Eighteen men are employed in this mine.

The Iron King, owned by General Schwenk, E. L. Richie, of New York, and J. E. Boss, of Socorro, lays about a mile west of the Bullion and two miles from Kingston. It is one of the oldest mines in the district, having been located by H. W. Elliott, in 1880. The ore body is very extensive. The ore is known to be 240 feet wide and extends entirely across the claim. The development work foots up, shafts 27 feet, cuts and tunnels, 561 feet. William Welch is the genial foreman, and employs about twenty-five men steadily. The ore is not very high grade, running from $30 to $40,000 per ton, but the great amount of mineral recompenses for this. The ore also carries from 40 to 70 per cent. of lead, with traces of copper and gold. The silver bearing rock is overlaid with an iron cap, hence the name of Iron King. Work will be carried right along and a smelter will be put in as soon as a road can be graded.

The Solitaire or the Big Strike, a few miles to the northeast of Kingston, is one of the wonders of the age. Governor Tabor paid $100,000 for this mine before any development work had been done. In fact, before the lead had been discovered. This is enough to say about this mine, as it is useless to expatiate upon a mine of such vast magnitude.

The Sin Clair, owned by M. H. Sin Clair, of Lake Valley, is showing up well.

The Clifford, extension of the Solitaire, owned by Mike Cogrove, of this city, Mr. Gregg and C. F. Netterfield, is showing up nicely as development work goes forward. The same parties also own the Old Vic and Serpent, two excellent mines in the vicinity.

The Kentucky, just above Kingston, owned by Robert Collum, J. Roberts, R. Bloods and T. Kelly, is showing up well. The assays run from fifty to 300 ounces in silver.

The Andy Johnson and Blackeyed Susan mines, owned by H. W. Elliott are of high grade, the latter running as high as 2,000 ounces per ton. $35,000 has been offered and refused by Mr. Elliott for the Andy Johnson.

The above is a very imperfect description of the mines in the vicinity of Kingston, but it is sufficient to give some idea of the richness of the Lake Valley country. There are numbers of other mines in the district which will likely prove as rich as those mentioned when more development work has been done. More and better mines can be found in no country than are to be found in the Lake Valley region.

PERSONAL.

Arch Cribbs, of Chicago, is in the city.

J. W. Robbins is up from San Marcial.

E. R. De Val came in from Chicago yesterday.

A. E. Dickerson, Chicago, is a late arrival in the city.

L. Y. Howard, of New York, is stopping at the Depot hotel.

Doc Russell, of Detroit, Michigan, is a late arrival in the city.

Fernando Nolan was a passenger south on yesterday's train.

F. Eldman, of New York City, is registered at the Depot hotel.

Mrs. S. B. Davis, of the Plaza hotel, returned yesterday from a two day's visit in Santa Fe.

Mrs. J. S. Brownwell, of Albuquerque formerly of this city, was a passenger east yesterday.

P. J. Martin, proprietor of Chapman Hall, returned yesterday from a visit to Canada. He was accompanied by his brother, A. H. Martin.

Avery Turner, one of the first conductors who brought passenger trains into Las Vegas, came over from La Junta, Colorado, yesterday.

Judge Prince came up from Santa Fe yesterday to look after business matters in this city, as he is the owner of considerable valuable property in town. He is looking in the best of health and spirits.

D. D. McDougall, recently of Battle Creek, Michigan, has taken charge of the mud bath at the Hot Springs and puts the patients through in good order. He has had much experience in the sanitarium at Battle Creek.

The Press Convention.

A telegram was sent to W. F. White yesterday asking that the editors be furnished with the necessary pasteboard to attend the press convention on Friday. It is probable that the matter will be arranged to-day so that all the editors may come, even if their quarterly passes have not been returned to them. The convention will assemble on Friday evening at the Presbyterian church. A hop and banquet will be given on Saturday evening, and all series who are ready can go home on the Sunday train. We hope there will be a large attendance.

A Railroad President Missing.

Wm. G. Corbin, president of the Mexican Central & Northern railroad, has been missing since Monday evening. No one seems to know whether he has sped. He was last seen in this city at 8 o'clock in the evening, just before the emigrant train went north. He was seen on the emigrant train and a passenger on the Pacific express yesterday stated they had seen him at Raton yesterday morning. Corbin is a curiosity as a railroad president. He is the first specimen of the species we have ever seen who could not pay his board bill. He claims to represent a railroad company of the above title, chartered under the laws of Michigan, with the requisite papers filed in this territory. The object of the company as expressed is to build a railroad south from Trinidad to Las Vegas, through the White Oaks and on to the Gulf. If the company has put up any money, Corbin as its president, as yet, has not handed any of it. He came here last spring and established his headquarters in this city, opening an office on Douglas street, with the N. M. C. & N. railroad company lettered thereon. He shunned newspaper notoriety and wanted to be let strictly alone. He made no display, lived cheap, and appeared to be tending strictly to his own business. He asked no subsidies, nor aid from any one, but went about quietly stating that he would give proper information when his scheme was ripe. His energies during the summer seems to have been devoted to getting the right of way through various grants and tracts of land. Lately, it appears, he thought it about time to begin to make motions toward building the road. He organized a preliminary surveying party, hired transportation and announced that on Monday of this week operations would begin in earnest and that everything was ready for a forward movement. The surveyors were to load up for the start yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The boys stood around all day, but Corbin failed to put in an appearance. He had got to the end of his string and thought it about time to vanish. His pretences of course did no one any special harm, excepting the loss of a little time, as his object did not appear to be for the purpose of working the scheme for any money in it, but simply as a pastime and amusement for himself. He is an old boy, playing at railroad for fun.

Corbin is likely a little off in the up-story, his mind filled with vast schemes and remarkable projects, but he does not realize that some cash is necessary to build a few hundred miles of railroad and properly equip it. But he woke up to a realization of the situation when he was confronted by a preliminary surveying party and asked to show up some collateral, by the boys, as a guarantee of good faith before they went out on the line, and naturally skipped out. His promises of money to himself, to them and others has not been forthcoming and his board bills have not been settled nor his office rent paid. In order to jump a board bill, however, it was not necessary to organize so vast a scheme.

Council Proceedings.

The common council met yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Romero. But little business was done with the exception of paying a few bills and ordering Bridge Street to be graded, according to the grade established by City Surveyor Howell. The grade will extend from the aqueduct near Stern's store to the railroad. On motion the council adjourned until Thursday.

The Atlantic and Pacific railroad has been completed west of Vinita, in the Indian Territory, to Tulsa, in the Creek nation, a distance of sixty-four miles. Tulsa is on the Arkansas river. The road will be built from there, striking the Canadian at a point two hundred miles west, and thence up that stream to New Mexico. It will strike Las Vegas as the first important point in this territory.

J. Robertson has opened up on the plaza, one door west of Billy's saloon, an institution which has been greatly needed, viz: A short order restaurant and lunch counter. He has a cozy little place, and will set up a good meal on short notice. Oysters served in every style. It will be open day and night. Mr. Robertson understands the business, and although he has only been open for a day has already had a good run of business.
